WE WILL REMEMBER THEM
EXHIBITION

Sunday the 24th May , 2015 turned out to be a lovely day in Dublin, the sky was a little overcast but fine. The Dublin History Group had been planting up the Remembrance Garden and setting up the Exhibition the previous day, with Bev Jones and Philip Brow putting the finishing touches to the Banner display.

At 1.30 p.m. began the DHG's contribution to the About Time 2015 History Festival. Ian Telfer, DHG President started the proceedings with a very touching introduction , then he read out each of the 7 soldiers names as members of the DHG laid the plaques on their temporary holders. These seven soldiers were not recognised on the Rolls of Honour but are part of the areas military history . Philip Brow then talked about the story of the Ode and recited it. The Last Post will always bring a tear to your eye and your thoughts go to those lost men and their families. Lest We Forget. The Roust then brought us back to the present and singing the National Anthem. Sue Adams then read In Flanders Field (by John McCrae). After which Bev Jones handed out packets of Flanders Red 'Remembrance' poppies seeds to the guest for them to scatter on the new garden beds.

We then moved inside to the next part of the afternoon - the World War One Banners. These came about as the DHG wanted a way to present the information we had found researching our soldiers and this was an easy to read, attractive format. The banners were designed by Sian Mansell, printed by Elizabeth Officeworks and partly funded by the Australian Government's Anzac Centenary Local Grants Program. Andrea Brow introduced the Banners before thanking Sian for her beautiful work, Sian responded by talking about the design process and how she was touched by one of the photographs that of Lancelot Taylor and how young he looked.

Remembrance Garden

Although the garden is planted to mark the centenary of the Gallipoli Campaign of the First World War, ANZAC and Allied Forces landing at Gallipoli in Turkey on 25 April 2015, it will be edged with a concrete plinth that will have plaques attached with names and information of fallen soldiers from all conflicts.

DHG President, Ian Telfer listens as Philip Brow talks about and reads the Ode

It is planted with the Gallipoli Rose (Cistus salvifolius) and Gallipoli Rosemary (Rosemarinus officinalis) which are native to the Gallipoli Peninsula. They are the official symbols for ANZAC Day Commemorations in Turkey. Also the Remembrance Poppy (Papaver rhoeas) which grew wild on the battlefields of France and Belgium and is symbolic to honour the dead and help the living. The Garden's backdrop is an avenue of Tuckeroo Trees (Cupaniopsis anacardioides) planted For our Saluting our World War One Soldiers Event in November 2014
